

Faculty Position in Quantitative Cell and Developmental Biology

The Department of Cell and Developmental Biology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine seeks a full-time tenure track Investigator at the rank of Assistant Professor. The successful candidate will be expected to build a competitive program in cell and developmental biology, mentor and teach graduate students, medical students and/or post-doctoral fellows and contribute to the goals and advancement of the Department and School. Northwestern University offers a collegial and collaborative scientific environment that is rich with core facilities, robust cross-disciplinary graduate training programs, and diverse expertise. Qualified candidates performing interdisciplinary and quantitative research, utilizing innovative techniques to investigate fundamental issues of related to development and disease should apply. Applicants should have an outstanding record of research that adds to existing departmental strengths. The successful applicant also will have the opportunity to participate in graduate and medical education.

Candidates are expected to hold a PhD, MD/PhD or MD degree, significant research experience, and evidence of extramural funding. A track record of outstanding past research productivity, collaborative nature, and a clear plan for establishing a robust and cutting-edge future research will be essential. Salary is commensurate with experience. The start date is negotiable, and the position will remain open until filled.

When applying, please upload your CV, research statement (2-3 pages), diversity statement (1 page), and cover letter describing your interest and alignment with the position. Also upload this completed list of references form to suggest the names of 4 individuals who could write letters of reference on your behalf.

Application URL: <https://facultyrecruiting.northwestern.edu/apply/Mjl4Mg==>

Consideration of applications will begin December 1st, 2024, and will continue until the position is filled.

Northwestern strongly recommends COVID-19 vaccinations and boosters for people who can obtain them as a critical tool for minimizing severe illness. More information can be found on the COVID-19 and Campus Updates webpage.

The Northwestern campus sits on the traditional homelands of the people of the Council of Three Fires, the Ojibwe, Potawatomi, and Odawa as well as the Menominee, Miami and Ho-Chunk nations. We acknowledge and honor the original people of the land upon which Northwestern University stands, and the Native people who remain on this land today.

Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes, including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women, racial and ethnic minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply. Click for information on EEO is the Law.

