

CFAAR FACULTY POSITION – SEARCH AD
June 2022

The Center for Food Allergy and Asthma Research \(CFAAR\), part of the Institute for Public Health and Medicine (IPHAM) at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine and Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children’s Hospital of Chicago, aims to find answers and shape policies surrounding food allergy, asthma and other allergic conditions. CFAAR is comprised of three interdisciplinary and collaborative research cores: 1.) Public Health Data Repository Core, 2.) Clinical Research Core and 3.) Community/School Outreach Core. These cores are led by experts in the fields of epidemiology, health services research, health behavior, patient care, and advocacy seeking to make meaningful improvements in the health of children, adults, and families living with allergic disease.

We are currently seeking an experienced full-time researcher particularly among children. Responsibilities include developing and maintaining a robust research program in collaboration with lead investigators within CFAAR at Northwestern. The successful candidate should have clinical experience and demonstrated success in research collaboration including on grant-funded projects, particularly on complex, multi-year projects with multiple sites. Candidates will also be expected to pursue an externally-funded research agenda while collaborating with other departments and divisions, centers and institutes within the Feinberg School of Medicine and across Northwestern University.

Qualified candidates will have an MD or PhD, relevant training, and a track record of funded research and scholarship in a relevant field, as well as expertise in building partnerships and collaborations with relevant partners.

The start date is negotiable and the position will remain open until filled. Salary will be commensurate with experience.

When applying, please upload a CV and cover letter describing your interest and alignment with the position.

Applications accepted here: <https://facultyrecruiting.northwestern.edu/apply/MTU0Mw==>